

Michael Yu is the APJ regional Director of Hewlett Packard Network Services. He has been successfully managing the growth and profitability of HP's network services business since year 2000, to lead the regional organization going through major industry transformation such as 3Com acquisition and separation of major alliance partnership with Cisco.

Now the Network services is an important organization within HP Technology Services, the team provides enterprise customer world class NW solutions such as Telco NW solution, IPv6, iBuilding, Unified Communication and round-the-clock support services. The services includes business transformation, consulting, assessment, implementation, proactive support and mission critical services, to provide customer always on network infrastructure and services. Michael is one of the thought leaders in the region, he developed and drove advance solution development within the company and formulate technology alliance with key industry partners such as Avaya, F5, Riverbed and etc.

Michael has been to the HP Services organization for more than 12 years, brought deep networking background from previous working experience with other major IT services providers in the region. In past 12 years, he takes multiple roles in the organization, started his career as technical consultant, solution manager and became the regional business manager in 2008.

Michael holds a degree of Electrical and Electronics Engineering from the University of Hong Kong, and a second degree in Laws(LLB) from the University of London.