

Multi-Cloud Security : A key to Unlock Your Digital Transformation

Abstract

In the era of hyper-connectivity, Multi-Cloud platforms are helping to drive and accelerate digital transformation and business initiatives in enterprises large and small. With critical workflows moving to cloud, the organisations face a more complex and expanded attack surface, and as a result, traditional point solutions are no longer adequate security measures. The 3rd Generation of network security with evolution of its Security Fabric provides the broad visibility, integrated threat intelligence and automated response required for digital business in every cloud environments.